The Arabian medical writers speak of the efficacy in diseases of the LIVER, KIDNEYS and BOWELS, and to this day there is no standard work on medicine in which it is not strongly recommended for the purification of the blood, for the cleansing of the liver ducts, and of the intestines. At the same time it stimulates the secretion of the bile and removes from the body that sluggishness and weariness of life so constantly felt in connection with diseases of the liver. ### MAINE'S NEW INDUSTRY.
THE PIONEER CREAMERY AND ITS WORK
—INTERESTING DESCRIPTION

After all the talk and planning at various points, last spring, to start a cooperative butter making establishment in Maine, says the Lewiston Journal, it was left for the farmers of the little town of Wales to quietly go to work and mature their plans, put them into execution and turn on the steam, as it were and set the butter machinery at work and where the raw material went in in the morning it came out at night the golden gilt-edged justly accorded to be the peer of the butty flavored product of the best private dairy. And this is how it happened that little Wales has come in ahead in starting a creamery. It happened that Mr. F. Jordan a son of Wales but not 18 years sojourner in the West four years of which were spent in successfully operating an Iowa creamery, last winter returned to his native hills, and, while visiting among the farmers, very naturally told them what he knew about butter making on the cooperating plan.
The Messrs. Jonathan Davis Isaac Whitterell and David Maxwell as prime movers and a score or two of other farmers whose hill pastures stretching along by the shores of Sabattis pond, and varying the landscape through the pleasant region of this small town furnished just the sweetest feed for the jerseys composing the private dairies of their good farms. They said "Several other portions of Maine are discussing the question of starting creameries; let us build one and go to work." The man is here, urging us on and I'll do so much more," says another and the wheels began to move, and the result is a neat, small factory erected well patronized, in successful operation, and satisfactory returns realized. That, in short, is how it began.

EQUIPMENT AND COST.

In the first place funds were needed. How shall they be raised? Farmers company and sell the shares at $25 each, and each one be allowed a vote to the management. It was done. The amount of $1400 was raised, a building put up, 26x32 feet, at a central location where the right facilities were afforded for pure cold spring water, with drainage ample.
The building is tightly boarded, papered and clapboarded on the outside, and sheathed with planed matched boards inside throughout, partitions double of the same. Now for the fixtures.
"What do we want?"
"A good supply of cold water from the hillside spring." It was furnished, and also with a convenient amount of hose to conduct it to all parts of the building where wanted.
"Then we want an engine to do our churning." A nice little Baxter engine of five-horse power was luckily procured nearly as good as new for less than $300. A new one costs $600. Mr. Jordan, the gentlemanly superintendant, says, "a tank or vat for cooling the cream is one of the essentials," and forthwith the thing was fashioned according as western experience dictated—a zinc lined box, some 8x4 feet, placed in the churning room. And a churn, and that is a rectangular affair, 2½ feet square by 3 feet in length, capacity of 100 pounds of butter at a churning.

OTHER INDISPENSABLES

The next indispensable articles are the Eureka butter worker, the moulder and stamper, the tin cans for tempering the cream, each of six gallons capacity, and then the gathering cans for gathering the cream, manufactured by the Ironclad Can Company, each holding 20 gallons. These cans are provided with a follower, which floats upon and rises with the cream as turned into the can, and prevents its agitation while being transported. A cover is fastened upon the top of these cans and through the centre a tin tube, two inches in diameter communicates with the bottom of the can, through which the cream is turned by the one gathering it. A cap fits upon the tube and thus the can is filled without raising the cover at all, and all dirt or dust is entirely excluded.
First, upon the right as you enter the building at the front is the engine room, 8x12 feet. A belt reaches across the hallway and operates the churn in the churning and cream room on the left. This is some 14x20 feet. Opening from the hall and beyond the engine room is the butter room, where the process of working, salting, stamping and packing is done. The temperature of this room is kept at about 60° by the use of ice, the latter material being one of the indispensables in running a creamery.
Now we have seen the utensils and all the fixings and the rooms where they are severally used; let us take a look at the farmer's homes and see what the farmer's duties are.

CARE OF THE MILK.

Each patron provides himself with a creamer of some make—the Cooley is used here. The milk as drawn from the cow is set in the submerged cans where it remains twenty four hours. After the milk is set the farmer's duty ceases. The man who gathers the cream does the skimming, notes the number of inches of cream, gives the proper credit, deposits it in the can and passes on to the next farm. At present there are thirty patrons keeping 168 cows, extending over a range 7½ miles. The cream is gathered every day and churned, except Sundays. No Sabbath work is done, but an extra churning is done on Tuesday, which brings matters round right.
The cream on its arrival at the factory is turned into the cooling cans and then placed in the temperary vat, and the water turned on, which maintains a temperature of 48°. The cream is allowed to stand until a certain period of acidity is reached and the temperature made uniform to 60°; when it is turned into the churn. The churning occupies about one hour, never less than 45 minutes. The churn makes 47 revolutions a minute. After the butter has come and just the right point in granulation is reached, which requires practice to determine, the buttermilk is drawn off through a tin tube, thence to a gutter, which deposits it in a tank upon the premises. At this stage the butter is of honeycombed mass, made up of grains about the size of pearl tapioca.
As soon as the buttermilk ceases to run, pure water from the spring is turned into the churn until the butter is covered; the churn given six or eight revolutions and again drained. When the process is repeated. The object of washing and rinsing is to remove all impurities, whether the product is sweet and beautiful in appearance this is not the only consideration. It must be firm and solid enough to bear handling without crushing. To secure this end the butter is worked and salted in the churn. The salt is sifted on and worked in by the worker. When the salt is thoroughly incorporated with the mass of butter, it is shovelled into nice, clean hand made spruce tubs and allowed to stand until the following day before being moulded into bricks. This is done with a lever press, which leaves the butter in square bricks each weighing one pound. As it comes from the press it is received upon the spatula and placed upon waxed tissue paper, in which each brick is wrapped separately and packed in the tubs or rectangular tin boxes the former of fifty pounds capacity, the latter of about thirty.
A settlement was made at the close of July, after the factory had been in operation a month and six days the product footing up 3 800 pounds, being a little over 100 pounds a day. The cost of making is 4½ cents paying the patrons a fraction over 19 cents a pound. The product of the creamery is all marketed in Lewiston and Bath, and finds speedy sale and is growing in favor with consumers every day. The demand for this butter is such that, were the capacity for producing increased two or three fold, it would find ready sale.

STATE NEWS.

Aroostook

The Republican says up to Monday of, 375 pounds of raspberries had been shipped from Fort Fairfield station. This amount includes all from this section excepting those being bought and prepared for use in Caribou by Mr. Stetson, of Medford. Mass. who is doing an extensive business. All the berries first mentioned are steamed and put up for shipment at Fisher's potato house at Fort Fairfield. The raspberry crop will continue about two weeks longer, and it is estimated that over $6 000 will be distributed among our people on account of this new business.

Cumberland

The Press says according to instructions from headquarters, the Portland telegraph operators who have been on the strike are now ready to go back to work. Manager Livermore will not discharge those operators who assisted during the strike but they will have permanent situations. Booker formerly in the Mutual Union office will remain in the Western Union office, and one of the strikers will be employed in his place in the Mutual Union office. This will leave two of the strikers out of a job.
Incidents in the life of a venerable New England town have a peculiar importance. The years lying back of these events, as well as the corporate interests and families which are concerned, make occurrences of public moment worthy of special recognition beyond the town borders. Scarcely can a tree which has stood in prominent place in such a town for a century, fall without thoughts arising which find a place in hearts and records associated with the old home. The New England town meeting, made illustrious by its relation to the progress of liberty, must be eulogized only in company with the New England town house which, in the earlier days, to the youthful mind in rural districts, stood for all that is fine in architecture. The town of Brunswick, Maine whose legal title has been borne since 1717, and which stands on the famous Pejepscot Purchase, is to have a modern town-house, a modern structure appropriate and well ordered that the old time building in which the town met generations ago would be envious, if buildings can entertain such feelings.
There are one hundred and twenty prisoners now confined in Portland jail an unusually large number.
The Press says Mrs. Randall Johnson of Portland, was injured Friday at Bethel where she has been visiting. She was in a pleasure party of thirteen and the horses drawing them became frightened and ran away. Mrs. Johnson sprang from the carriage and fractured one of her hips.
Mr. Horatio Boothby, clerk of the Ocean House, Cape Elizabeth, died very suddenly Monday. Mr. Boothby was well and popularly known in Portland and Boston.

The narrow gauge railroad from Farmington to Phillips they are talking of taking up and placing a broad gauge in its place. This would make 62 000 difference in the expenses of one lumbering company alone. "The Sandy River" whose lumber has to be taken in smaller lots to Farmington, and then again transferred there. They handle 10 000 000 of lumber a year. They have lately bought up that way 2 000 acres of land crowded with splendid spruce clean and nice, for $1 000. The Maine Central has about the same as bought the narrow gauge and when it is taken up for the broad gauge, it will be moved on to Rangely, opening up eighteen miles of fine lumber country. They talk nothing but railroad up that way.

Kennebec

Michael Kilbher Jr., aged twelve years, slipped from a log in the Kennebec at Waterville, Saturday, and was drowned before his companions could rescue him.
One morning recently the telephone operator in Augusta conversed over the wires with the operator in Boston. Although the distance is 174 miles, yet the sound of the voice could be distinctly heard, and conversation was carried on with ease.

Oxford

The Oxford Record says the premises of James B. Stone, of Brownfield, were entered by thieves, recently, and they managed to steal and carry away thirty four hens, butter, pork, and farming tools, amounting in value to about thirty dollars.

Ex-Senator Thomas J. Creamer tells a good story of the palmy days when the Hon. Paddy Burns was a deputy sheriff. He was frequently detailed to take convicted prisoners to Sing Sing Prison. One day, as he approached the entrance, a mild-mannered prisoner held out a pair of small white hands chained together with handcuffs. "Sheriff," he said, in pitiful accents, "look at those hands; they will be no good in the quarries. I'm here for ten years. It'll kill me to go into the quarries. You might as well put a tender lady in a laundry."
"Ah, be aisy, now," said Paddy. "You talk so much you twist the eye of me."
"I've a hundred dollar bill in my vest pocket, and—"
"Whisper, whisper," broke in Paddy, with sudden interest.
"It's my last hundred dollars," the prisoner continued in a low tone, "and it's yours if you'll only keep me out of the quarries."
"What can ye do, now?" Paddy inquired.
"Any light work," was the reply. "Can you get me something easy?"
"Well—now—I don't know. Are ye handy wid a pin?"
"Handy with a pen!" repeated the captive with sudden energy. "Heavens, man, I'm too handy. That's what I'm here for."—New York Sun.

ANOTHER DANIEL.

The followers of our distinguished Mayor are evidently unwilling that he should revel in all the solitary glory of wonderful discoveries in parliamentary law, and last evening Councilman Rogers, of Ward Two, while temporarily ornamenting the Chair, made a bold attempt to eclipse His Honor in his special field, by a ruling, that for originality and brilliancy is certainly calculated to wring tears of envy from the eyes of his chief.

Councilman Hogan having introduced an appropriation resolve containing substantially the same items embraced in the former resolve, except an increase of $2 000 for sewers, and a corresponding reduction of the "paving" item from $5 000 to $4,000, thereupon Mr Pierce of Ward Three, moved to amend by striking out the item for paving, when the President Pro Tem, rising to the full height of the occasion, ruled the motion out of order, on the ground that the resolve might be amended by "increasing" but couldn't be amended by "making less"

The Council very properly entered formal protest against the factious blocking of public business and the stubborn refusal of the Mayor and his allies to have any of the necessary appropriations made unless they can force the paving scheme through in the same resolve The Council notify the public that under our City Charter and the State Constitution the monthly expenditure accounts cannot be lawfully provided for, and that unless lawful appropriations are made the business of the city must stop or go on without funds

The people understand perfectly that this condition of things is brought about by the reckless stubbornness of the Mayor and his supporters, for they persistently refuse to unite in passing the needed appropriations, about which there is and has been no dispute but insist that they will have the amount they demand for paving, or there shall be no funds provided for any municipal purpose

The position of the Chief Magistrate of this city and his allies is one of lawlessness and contempt for the public interests they are sworn to protect

The Portland Press says The Democratic Mayor of Bangor is prancing around in much the same style as our own chief magistrate He has undertaken to put through the City Council a granite paving job involving an expenditure of $6,000 The Republicans who control the lower board object and the Mayor threatens to kill the general appropriation bill for ordinary city expenditures unless he can have his own way about the granite paving job Evidently Democratic mayors in Maine are chips from the same block

Ex Congressman Amos Townsend, of Cleveland, O, says 'Judge Foraker is doing splendidly On the stump he is clean cut meaning just what he says No ambiguity about Foraker He is doing well and the Republicans are beginning to see the wisdom manifested by his selection."

It is significant that the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer in Ohio has found it necessary, on account of reports circulated concerning his temperance principles, to issue a card denying that he is a total abstainer Oh no the Ohio Democracy is not for Free Rum!

The Republicans of New Jersey hope to be able to carry that State this fall. In 1880 the Democratic candidate for Governor had but 651 plurality, and last fall the Democratic plurality on the aggregate Congressional vote was but 2,093. Among the men spoken of as the party candidate for Governor is ex Representative Hill, the father of the 2-cent postage scheme.

Senator Pendleton was beaten in the Democratic Convention in Hamilton county (Cincinnati) Saturday by the McLean Bookwalter combination His defeat in his own city and county is well nigh fatal to the Senator's aspirations to be his own successor in case the Ohio Legislature is Democratic Mr Pendleton's civil service professions counted against him, despite the fact that he undertook privately to explain the Civil Service law as favorable to the Democracy But the McLean combination and Bookwalter's money, secured the services of the roughs and made certain Pendleton's defeat

The reliance which the Ohio Democrats place on the fact that they carried their State by a majority over the Republicans of nearly 20 000 last fall is not," observes the St Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep), "very well taken when all the circumstances are considered The total vote in the State fell off from that of the previous year 100 838 Of this falling off the Republicans suffered to the extent of 77,001, and the Democrats to that of 23,837. Had there been a full vote, notwithstanding the temperance agitation, the Republicans without much doubt would have elected their ticket. As it was the Democratic majority over all was only about 1,500, the Prohibitionists casting over 12 000 votes and the Greenbackers over 5 000 "

In a letter printed in the Tribune Mr. Porter continues to expose free trade fallacies Under a protective tariff the woollen industry of Germany has been steadily increasing, while the same industry in free-trade England has been as steadily decreasing. The difference is the more striking because Germany was decreasing her woollen exports previous to the adoption of a protective tariff Since that time the home product has been enormously increased, imports have largely fallen off and the export trade has been almost doubled. As the figures show, Germany under protection has come nearer by $26,000,000 to supplying her own wants and yet can manufacture cheaply enough to increase her foreign market $30,000,000. On the other hand England has lost $76,000,000 of her foreign trade in the same class of goods, and increased her importation of them to the value of about $10,000,000. These are solid facts, the importance of which is heightened by the knowledge that during the same time there has been a great improvement in the wages of Germany.

OHIO'S "NEW DEMOCRACY."

[N Y Tribune.]

Recent events in Ohio have clearly improved the Republican prospect, which was by no means bad at the outset. There has been another manifestation of the peculiar methods of the Hoadly-Pocket-bookwalter new Democracy, which really meets with distinguished success at the primaries and in the conventions of the Democratic party. Money was poured out so lavishly that the complete defeat of Mr. Pendleton in Hamilton County delights his adversaries, and those who consider him a much more worthy and respectable person than Bookwalter do not hesitate to suggest that it will be found easier to buy a primary than to elect the ticket In truth, "Gentleman George" seems a large man, indeed, in comparison with the "new Democrats" of the pocket-book sort He was able enough to sustain himself with credit to the Senate, even when his cause was not good, and his antagonists were statesmen of the first rank, but the advocacy of Civil Service reform made him better known to his political opponents and bitterly hated by his political friends. Mr. McLean and the Hoadly-Bookwalter faction have no use for a man who wants to reform things. Hence they go for Mr. Pendleton's scalp, and have the best of him thus far.

The question occurs at once to many when they read of this performance in Hamilton county, whether the Democratic managers have not given up all hope of success Men of shrewdness do not usually begin to scalp their friends on the threshold of a struggle in which they hope for victory The supporters of Mr. Pendleton are undoubtedly a minority in the Democratic party, a man is safe to be in the minority in that party if he goes beyond insincere and canting talk about reform and makes an honest effort for it But the supporters of Mr Pendleton are nevertheless rather numerous and they are voters of just the sort that the Democratic party cannot afford to insult at this time In fact, if we may suppose that the Democrats have 300 chances of success in 1,000, about 299 of those chances turn on the possible action of independent voters who care a great deal for Civil Service reform, and are not to be reached by any pocketbook The defeat of Mr Pendleton because of his effort for a real reform, and by means of the lavish use of money is not exactly calculated to make the independents fond of "the new Democracy "

But it is not so clear after all, that the Democratic managers have abandoned hope of success Clear headed old veterans, it is likely, know what is coming But the "new Democracy" has been picking up new leaders There distinguishing characteristic is a belief that money can do everything. Mr Bookwalter, it may be remembered, was singularly certain down to the day that Governor Foster beat him about 20,000 votes. It is not unlikely that Judge Hoadly is also sanguine. When the voting begins, it will be perceived that a vast amount of money can be spent in a political canvass without much to show for it, if the management of the Democrats at all resembles that when Mr Bookwalter was a candidate So far, Mr Hoadly seems to resemble him quite closely in some things

BAD TEA

When Congress recently passed a law prohibiting the importation of adulterated teas, the public supposed that thereafter they would know what they were buying when they bought tea, But it appears that the time for rejoicing has not yet arrived. According to a large dealer, whose remarks we print to-day, there is still on hand an immense quantity of adulterated and bogus tea, which has been accumulating here ever since England refused to receive any more of it The holders of this stuff are not going to throw it away, even if they have to go to church and "get religion" They are going to unload it to retailers or consumers, until every bit of it has defiled American teapots, unless the States—New York is among them—which have laws against adulteration proceed at once to protect the digestions and purses of hundreds of thousands of families Dirt and dyestuffs are good enough in their place, but that place is not the teapot Even if it were, they could be bought at ten times less than the price of tea —N Y Tribune

The latest effort of the Sun to blacken Garfield's name is the feeblest of the series. Three columns are devoted to the "Story of the Treaty of Mentor fully told," and the sum of the whole is that there was no treaty at all. The story is an anonymous one, no authority, not even Dorsey, being given for any of its statements. There is the same absence of documents which has characterized all these "revelations" Gen Simon Cameron is credited with suggesting to Garfield that it would be a good stroke of policy to invite General Grant and Mr Conkling to make a visit to Mentor. Garfield acted upon the advice and wrote a cordial letter to each, asking him to come Both invitations were accepted Mr. Conkling was at first opposed to going, and it took considerable argument to overcome his prejudice against such an exhibition.'

The visit was finally made, but the "call was rather stiff and of short duration." It was of "no importance except for the effect it was expected to have and did have upon the canvass." There were fifteen or twenty other persons present, and there was "no political discussion and no opportunity therefor" Garfield's "duplicity" consisted in giving the country the impression, by this visit, that all differences between him and the leaders of the Stalwart faction had been "arranged," and that the party was harmonious and united. The Stalwart inference is the old one, that the appearance of Grant and Conkling in support of Garfield turned the tide and saved the party from defeat, and that Garfield refused them the adequate reward when he came into office. It is a curious mistake to suppose that a revelation of this kind will either injure Garfield's memory or help the reputations of his Stalwart enemies.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

That very absurd person, Capt. Rhodes, has reconsidered his declination of the whirlpool vagary, and now states that he will, time uncertain, risk meeting the same fate that befel Captain Webb. His latest announcement, however, gives some indication of the real milk in the cocoanut. He claims to be endeavoring to secure a government reward of $50,000 Just when and why any such alleged offer was made by this government is one of those things that no other man than Mr. Rhodes has as yet been able to discover. Some of the papers, however, treat the matter seriously and say "if anything of the kind is on record the sooner it is abrogated the better" —which is very true."

The new Byron letters, fourteen columns of which have just been printed by the London Athenæum, prove beyond question the falsity of the disgraceful scandal published by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe a few years ago. HOT COFFEE

FREE TO ALL!

Takes The Town By Storm.

Our friends and the public are invited to come and get the finest cup of coffee they ever drank. MR. H RICKER, General Manager, will exhibit at our store

THE BOSS

OR

ONE MINUTE COFFEE POT.

This Pot is secured by Patents of date of June 8, '78, July 9, '79.

DO NOT BUY INFRINGEMENTS.

The most wonderful of all inventions ever exhibited before the public for making coffee and tea. A child six or eight years old can make coffee and tea with it just as well as the most experienced cook, and it takes with all the rich ingredients contained in the coffee.

Only One Minute to Make Coffee as clear as wine

In boiling coffee you get no coffee, only bitter water; but by the new method of making it, we save all the acid, caffeine, and rich aroma, which make a delicious drink. No fish skins, no salt, no eggs, no cold water, nor anything else used to settle the coffee.

It is not a four-story pot, with air chambers and kitchen furniture, which people are looking for in buying a patent coffee pot, but it is perfectly simple.

Thousands are ready to testify that they never drank a cup of coffee until they drank one made in this pot.

☞ Ladies and gentlemen, there is no humbug about it. The coffee will be made before your own face in ONE MINUTE, as clear as wine.

☞ All are requested to come, whether customers at our store or not, and get a cup of Hot Coffee.

Over 600 have been sold in Burlington, 1 000 in Rutland, 400 in Brattleboro, 500 in Keene, N. H., 2000 in Springfield, Mass., 2,000 in Worcester, 1 500 in Lowell, and 800 in Concord, and the pots are giving universal satisfaction.—you save 365 cups a year, and you save one half your coffee. These are FACTS that will be proven to your satisfaction. 3,000 sold in Portland. These pots will last a lifetime as they never have to be set on the stove. 600,000 have already been sold.

CAUTION.

Do not buy Infringements of Patents. Many innocently think they have a right to make a patented article for their own use. That must not be allowed. The law was changed some years ago, and now reads: "Infringements consist in the use, sale or manufacture of something already patented."

The Pot Will be on Sale While the Exhibit Lasts.

We have seen this coffee pot tested in the most wonderful manner and want our friends and customers to see it in practical operation. Respectfully,

The matters for legislation will be all prepared in advance, so that it will be merely necessary for the presiding officers to pass them through like routine matter. The volume of statutes will not probably be ready for the public use till the first of January, though it is expected to have enough copies before that time to fulfil the legislative requirements. The next day after the Legislature convenes an excursion will be made to Boothbay harbor, as previously announced.

Fire Insurance Rates.

Mr. Editor: In the WHIG of the 16th, "Business" says it only cost in 1882 one ninth of one per cent. to insure all Bangor property. If this is true, why does not Business start a stock fire insurance company and insure for less than the old companies, and pay his stockholders dividends from the profits of the large business that he would have at the rate he names? The stockholders of the Union, Eastern, National and Bangor could give some valuable information as to the profits of fire insurance in Bangor and elsewhere We suggest to business that the field is ripe, the only question is, what will the harvest be?

Reunion of the First Maine Heavy Artillery.

A Large Attendance of Veterans—Business Meeting, Parade Through the Streets, and Banquet in City Hall With Speeches.—A Rousing Good Time.

The reunion of the First Maine Heavy Artillery was observed in this city yesterday, and the occasion was one of the greatest pleasure to the nearly two hundred veterans who assembled, as well as highly interesting to the citizens generally who witnessed the old soldiers march through the streets to the music of the fife and drum as in the days when men's souls were stirred.

The day was a fitting one for the gathering because it was the twenty-first anniversary of that Sunday morning, August 21st, 1862, when the brave boys marched through the streets of our city and departed for Washington. They left Bangor as the 18th Maine Regiment but within a few months after reaching the front were reorganized as the First Maine Heavy Artillery, the number of companies being increased from ten to twelve and the membership of each company being swelled, with the officers, to 150, so that the total number of the First Maine Heavy Artillery amounted to 1 800 men. Bangor was a most appropriate place for this rendezvous because the original volunteers and, recruits all came from Eastern Maine, and quite largely within the immediate vicinity of Bangor, and also because the 18th Maine, and the First Maine Heavy Artillery, were in command of that noble and much lamented citizen of Bangor, Col Daniel Chaplin.

The business meeting of the Association was held in Grand Army Hall during the forenoon and thither the members repaired after arriving in the city. The meeting was presided over by Capt. H. H. Shaw, of Portland, President of the Association. The business that came up for consideration was quite largely of a routine nature. It was voted to hold reunions annually and Dover, Bucksport and Bar Harbor were mentioned as locations for the coming year, but the subject was finally left in the hands of the executive committee for them to settle. It was unanimously voted to invite Mrs. Chaplin, widow of their late Colonel, and ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin to be present at the banquet and committees were appointed to escort them to the hall.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, Gen. Charles Hamlin.

Vice Presidents, Lieut. John Lancey Co. F and Comrade John H. Douglass, Co. C.

Treasurer, Justin M. Leavitt, Co. I.

Secretary, Capt. H. E. Sellers, Co. D.

Executive Committee, Capt. H. H. Shaw, Co. F; Capt. Richard V. Moore, Co. I, Capt. G. P. Smith, Co. H; Comrade A. C. Sawyer, Co. F; Comrade Fred T. Hall, Co. F; Comrade Charles Beale, Co. C; Dr. Lincoln; Capt. Hudson Saunders, Co. H; Sergeant Preston A. Rich, Co. G.

Short addresses were made to the boys by Capt. Goodale and Col. C. V. Crosman The latter was particularly happy in his remarks and his suggestion that they form in line and make a short parade through the streets to show that patriotic hearts still beat within their breasts was greeted with unbounded enthusiasm.

A procession was then formed and to the music of the fife and drum the members marched through West Market Square, up Main street, up Cross street and down Columbia street to City Hall where long banquet tables had been arranged and around which the boys were soon seated. At one of the tables sat ex-Vice President Hamlin, Mrs. Chaplin and several lady guests. After the chaplain had offered prayer the refreshments were attacked and the bountiful collation was thoroughly appreciated, as shown by the fierce onslaught made upon it. The speeches then commenced and continued until about half-past three.

President Shaw made an eloquent opening address. As he looked in their faces his memories were carried back twenty-one years. The 18th Maine was one of the finest bodies of men which ever left this or any state for the seat of war. That hot Sunday morning when we marched through the streets of this city and the sad faces of those who witnessed our departure was vividly recalled. Every march to a higher plain of civilization has left footsteps marked with blood. The sacrifices, as in ancient times have to be of the best. Our sacrifice ought to have been and was sufficient. It seems a fearful price we paid, but we gained the prize. We now live in peace and prosperity in the finest country in the world.

Mrs. Chaplin, widow of the lamented Colonel, was introduced and received a tumultuous ovation.

The toast "City of Bangor" was responded to by Mayor Cummings, who was a member of the regiment. He narrated many incidents connected with the First Maine Heavy Artillery and spoke in a feeling manner.

Ex-Vice President Hannibal Hamlin was called upon to respond to the following sentiment, "The Nation for which we fought: one now and ever indivisible." The distinguished speaker was received with very demonstrative applause and made one of the most felicitous speeches of his life time. In opening, he said the nation speaks for itself. Its physical geograph commands our admiration. The broad savannahs of the South, the rolling prairies of the West, and the rough hillsides and valleys of New England are unequalled. The mountains pierce the heavens. The rivers sweep on to the mighty ocean, there eternity. Seven years' strife was necessary to emancipate us from the Mother Country. We meet upon our natal day and do homage to the great men of that time, but no greater honor is deserved by them than by those who rescued and preserved our country. There are considerations enough to make patriots love our country next to the God above and the mothers who bore us. Love it with all hearts and defend it with our hands that Republican government does not perish from earth. These reunions should be more the counterpart of July 4th. We should meet to rejoice and not to mourn. True, we will speak as we should of the devotion of those who fought, and allude to the march, camp and battle. But let these gatherings be given to rejoicing. Rejoices that you saved the nation from perishing. Let us rejoice that you demonstrated a fresh government is the strongest. Let us be proud and rejoice that you taught all the world that a citizen soldiery is stronger than one that is drilled.

The perpetuation of our organization was responded to by Comrade C. C. Roberts, of Boston, who spoke earnestly and alluded to the fact that the First Maine Heavy Artillery has more dead on the roll than any other regiment. Capt. Joseph A. D. Lo required to tan the hides, the liquor in the vats is changed about five times, and unless this change is made as soon as the liquor has become as weak as water, decomposition begins and spoils the leather. It can thus be seen how great a loss would be endured by the creditors if there should be any suspension of work at any of the tanneries. The one here is one of the smallest owned by the Shaw Brothers, yet the loss here would assume considerable proportions. At present this tannery is without any bark, but enough liquor is on hand, with the bark extract from the other manufactories, to carry the work on for several weeks, after which something will probably have to be done.

The same situation practically exists at the other tanneries where there is an abundance of bark, for certain creditors have placed attachments upon the bark and refused to allow any of it to be used. The majority of creditors in this State, however, are desirous that the tanneries should be continued in operation, as those who understand their condition report matters favorable for the realization of a large amount of quick assets, as during the past spring they have been run to their fullest capacity and a large amount of stock on hand is daily becoming ready for the market.

Among the gentlemen conversed with by the Journal's representative are parties from Pennsylvania who are familiar with the work done by the largest tanners in that State, but for the past two years have been at work for the Shaw Brothers. They say that in no tanneries they have ever been acquainted with has the work been carried on in as economical a manner as in those owned by this firm. Everything has been provided to economize labor and prevent loss, and to this way they have been enabled to tan hides for a cent a pound less than other parties can.

To Creditors of F. Shaw & Bros.

The following notice to the creditors of F. Shaw & Bros. has been issued:

THE APPLE CROP.

Reports from all the apple producing sections of the country indicate a light crop, and in many places, a total failure In Western New York, usually one of the best apple sections, there was a failure last year, and reports from there, say that this year the failure will be as complete as last. Last year, says the Rural Home, the first promise of fruit—blossoms—was as profuse as was ever seen, and the second promise, young fruit, was better than this year, but the invasion of swarms of aphis destroyed the larger proportion of the fruit This year, the first promise was very light, but a small proportion of the apple tree blooming, and those not very full There was an almost entire absence of bloom from the great leading market apple of Western New York—the Baldwin As light as the first promise was, the second was much poorer. There was evidently something that prevented fecundation Although there were many hours of rain during the few days in which apples were in bloom there were certainly two or or three days when there were only light showers of short duration We must conclude if too much rain was the cause of failure, that the pollen was fully ripe during the protracted rain storms, and that it had lost its vitality before it became dry enough for distribution.

The same paper suggests that the probable cause of the failure of the apple in that section the present year was the unfavorable season of 1882 for forming fruit buds The swarms of aphis who ch attacked the trees in early midsummer arrested the growth of wood, and the later growth formed leaf-buds instead of fruit There has been a failure of the crop in western New York, for three successive years, involving a loss of many millions of dollars to the farmers.

We must seek some other cause than the one given above for the failure of the crop here According to the reports of our corre-ponden's in various parts of the State trees blossomed quite profusely though not as full as in some seasons The impression however, from the appearance of the bloom, was that we would probably have a fair crop. Subsequent reports also went to show that fecundation took place and the young fruit started well, but that soon after, it began to wither and either dry up or drop off, and many trees which early gave promise of a fair yield were left entirely fruitless The very wet weather which prevailed at that time, may have had some effect in producing this disastrous result and it may not, such problems are not easy of solution

The loss will be seriously felt, especially by those who make apple-culture a specialty, but the number of these in this State is not very large. One of the great advantages of mixed husbandry is found in the fact that where it is practiced the failure of a single crop is not disastrous It may seriously shorten the year's profits because in a good season there is nothing pays better than orcharding, but where there are several crops upon which the farmer depends, the loss of one will not seriously cripple him. We are to have a short crop of apples and it is equally true that we shall be obliged to get along with what we raise for it is quite evident that there is no section of the country that will have a surplus It behooves us therefore, to take good care of our small crop, protect the trees and fruit in the best manner until harvest time comes, and then gather them with such care as not to impair their keeping qualities. There will be none for export, few for stock and few for cider, but if the crop is all kept in the State as it should be the supply will be fair for ordinary purposes —Maine Farmer.

ELECTRIFIED LIQUOR

A NEW PROCESS TO TAKE THE POISON OUT OF ALCOHOL

The latest use to which electricity has been put is to a process of "giving age" to whiskey and wines It is the discovery of a Californian who had succeeded in getting patents from the United States, and has at the same time interested the internal revenue commissioner to such an extent that special privileges to experiment with bonded whiskey have been accorded him. A series of trials are being conducted in San Francisco. The process in question is exceedingly simple, and, if all is true that is claimed for it it will revolutionize the liquor and wine trade It is nothing more than a quick and cheap method of refining that being done in from twelve to forty eight hours, which formerly required years to accomplish Wine needs age to make it good It is apt to taste "after the soil," as the connoisseurs call it.

In the case of whiskey it is an abundance of fusil oil which causes the fire-water taste, and it has heretofore always been supposed that nothing can remove it but time For this reason new whiskey is seldom put into the market The government will allow whiskey to remain in bond but three years. After that time the tax must be paid and the whiskey removed When it is desired to turn out an exceptionally fine quality, it has to be kept a few years longer in regular storage, and the older it gets the better it is alleged, becomes its quality. The process is expensive because it costs storage, interest and insurance to carry whiskey from year to year. It is similar in the case of wine, which requires age even more than whiskey to give it flavor Now all this, it is claimed, the electric process can accomplish in a few hours, and the manner in which it is done is as follows

Two blocks of carbon wrapped up in flannel are inserted in the liquor to be purified, and these carbons are connected with the positive and negative poles of an ordinary Brush electric machine Electricity is then generated by the usual means, and the process of purification and refining proceeds The chemical action upon the liquor is such that all impurities are attracted to the negative carbon-covering flannel. The excess of fusil oil also finds lodgment here, and, when the cloth is removed, it looks as if it had been steeped for a day and a year in Tar Flat brine. It is asserted that the liquor does not lose proof during the process. Light wines require about two hours of this electric churning, fortified wines are rendered mellow in twelve hours, and the hardest and deadliest sample of alcoholic distillation is made comparatively harmless in forty-eight hours.

If all that is claimed for the invention is founded on facts, its importance upon the winemaking industry can hardly be overestimated. It will then be no longer necessary to send casks of port on sea voyages around the world, and eastern wine merchants need no longer have recourse to the prevarication that French wine, having undergone a sea voyage, is necessarily better than the domestic product. Age, the great desideratum for California wines, can be produced with the aid of a dynamo-electric machine. Every saloon can own a little machine, turned by hand, dog or steam, and every person can be personally convinced that the liquor which is set before him is electrically pure and old. "Give it a shock" will become as common as "A little water please," the sting will be taken out of many a temperance speech and mania a pota will no longer be dubbed "horrors."

New Hub Range
FOR 1883.

COMBINES MORE IMPROVEMENTS, And Conveniences,
than all its competitors The introduction of the New Hub in the city has caused our competitors to make over their goods, and in doing so their aim has been to get a stove "as good as the New Hub," but as yet they have all failed, and without

The Patent Reflex Crate, they cannot get a stove that will compare with the Hub We have

Sold Over 500 of These Ranges
within three years and we refer to them for proof that the New Hub is the easiest range to manage, the best baker, the most durable and the prettiest range in the market. To prove the durability of the Reflex grate, we will simply say that we have sold in three years replaced or repaired one dozen grates out of the hundreds that we have sold during the Summer season the New Hub has been nearly made over Every point which experience has proved to need strength, has been thoroughly strengthened, and we have to-day a range that is twenty five per cent ahead of any other in New England

Compare it with anything in the city, even the latest, and decide for yourself We refund money for every range that proves unsatisfactory after a fair trial

Oranges and Florida.
Better than Breezes and Blossoms
—Under a New Flag.

Even the balmy air and orange groves of Florida fail to keep its people full of happiness and comfort. But must help nature everywhere—in the tropics as among the pines of the North —and, chief among the blessings which are adapted to all zones writes Dr I G Wallace, of Fort Deade, Kan, "is PARKER'S TONIC It seems to have the world for a field and most of the current diseases yield to its action I have used it in the case of a delicate and dyspeptic young lady, with the most gratifying results. It seemed to accomplish with case what the usual prescriptions and treatment for that miserable malady failed wholly to bring about I can also give testimonial that Tonic has greatly relieved me personally of a troublesome stomach condition of the stomach of long standing It is the ideal purifier and invigorant."

Messrs H scox & Co call especial attention to the fact that after April 16, 1883, the name and style of this preparation will exactly be simply Parker's Tonic The word Ginger is dropped for the reason that unprincipled dealers are often stantly deceiving their people by substituting inferior preparations under the name of ginger, and as ginger is an important ingredient in our Tonic, we are sure that our friends will agree with us as to the propriety of the change There will be no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of "PARKER'S GINGER TONIC," contain the genuine medicine if the signature of HISCOX & CO is at the bottom of outside wrapper.

SKIN HUMORS
Wonderful Cure of a Lad 12 years old, who for 8 years, from the top of his head to his ankles, was One Mass of Scabs.

My son, a lad twelve years of age, was afflicted with the worst form of Eczema for a period of eight years. So virulent was it that from the top of his head to within a few inches of his ankles he was one mass of scabs, which refused to yield to any treatment that was attempted. Every remedy that was suggested by friends or physicians was tried in vain. Almost hopelessly, barks, roots, salt water baths, flaxseed poultices, soaps, ointments, and in short everything that could be done to eradicate the disorder seemed only to aggravate it, and the child's life became a burden to him, and the expense of the various experiments was a constant drain upon our resources.

Despairing, reading the advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in one of the daily papers, resolved to make one more attempt at a cure (The disease was now encroaching upon his face, and seemed incurable) I gave a reluctant consent to the purchase, and an interview was sought with a famous lady physician of New York, who made a most thorough examination of the case, and pronounced ours without the least hesitation by the use of your Cuticura Remedies. In ONE WEEK there was a marked change, the raw and angry sores began to grow pale and along the outer edges sealed off and as time wore on they began to disappear entirely, until at the present writing the only vestige of one small spot upon the forearm, scarcely visible to the last lingering.

Thus after eight years of expense and anxiety, we have the intense satisfaction of seeing the child's skin as smooth as it was before this dreadful cutaneous disorder attacked him.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. BAYER BINELE.

ev. Father Wilds'
EXPERIENCE.
Rev Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows
No. 8 5th St., New York, May 16, 1882
Messrs J C AYER & Co., Gentlemen
Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable cough, my throat affected, my voice nearly lost, my limbs which inclined to lethargy at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them I was also a sufferer from a severe sore mouth and catarrhal cough, my appetite was poor and my system a good deal run down Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA by observation of many other cases and from personal use in former years I began taking it for the above-named disorders My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the soreness and inflammation was allayed and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent I feel a hundred per cent stronger and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised I took in all about three bottles three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles I place those facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good
Yours respectfully, Z P WILDS "

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impurpor in poverished blood, and a weakened vitality

At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs, then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever and the pulse more fearsome, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever It is free from nervous irritants and astringent articles, which are often drying a nature as to bring great danger of destroying the patient wherein this medicine never does. Time or storage does not impair its healing the cures, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions free
